Sophomore Production Draws Crowd

Attracted by previous disappointing delays and human curiosity, students crowded into the Little Theater at 10 o'clock last Wednesday morning to witness at last the annual Sophomore Show.

Master of ceremonies was Pat Smythe. Sophomore president John Mays was the gag man. Several old vaudeville gags were presented; such as "The Shot Putter," with Don Burke and Earl Burns; "The Case," with Wes Hammond and Phil Babcock; and an impromptu entrance by Roger Erickson, Muriel Shuttler, and Jimmy Clark in the middle of an act.

Holt Wood, in his entertaining manner, presented the monodrama, "Casey at the Bat," as the opening act. "Shooting of Dan McGrew" was enacted by Pauline Person as Dan, and Mimi Rookledge, Carmen Mercante, and Bob Bushta. Holt Wood was narrator for the scene, and Stuart

Dramatics Production Successful

By CHARLES LINK

"January Thaw," comedy play enacted by S.J.C. dramatics students, was a near sell-out for its presentations last Thursday and Friday night, and it had nearly a full house for its final performance Saturday night. The cast brought forth roaring applause from the audience in the many humorous parts of the play.

"January Thaw" was produced by the dramatics group with very much the same approach as last year's production of "Feathers in a Gale." With the same contrast of New England traditioners and a suspiciously typical all-American family, the somewhat unoriginal plot had many points of humorous clashes. Such laughable events were those between Holt Wood and Jim Clark, who, it seems, were mentally flustered over the advantages and disadvantages of "indoor plumbing."

Bill Holm, when he wasn't stealing scenes, showed a consistency of characterization which occasionally is lacking in amateurs; Carmen Mercante displayed the same stage presence. All of the actors did a good job of getting around on a stage crowded like most pawn shops and small like most bathrooms.

The set was very nice. Other members of the cast were: Barbara Barnett, Jack Condon, Earl Arnett, Bette Marshall, Joan Waite, Grover Grant, and Bob Bushta.

COMMISSION SETS ELECTION FOR MAY 16

It was decided at Tuesday's commission meeting to change the date of the general election for student body commissioners from May 14 to Friday, May 16. Voting is to be held from 11 to 3 o'clock in the foyer. Student body cards must be presented at the time of voting as they are to be stamped on the back to prevent anyone's voting more than once. If run-offs are necessary for any office, they will be scheduled for Monday, May 19.

Commissioners agreed to hold an assembly for the purpose of introducing the candidates on Wednesday, May 14, with the exact time to be announced later.

Vice-president Arnett moved that the title and duties of the commissioner of publications be changed, the title to be commissioner of public relations with duties being publicizing athletic events and other school functions. He suggested that the candidates should have an interest in some phase of journalism, photography, or advertising. It was brought up that this would have to be placed on the general election ballots, May 16, as an initiative measure requiring two-thirds vote.

Because of the third performance of "January Thaw," the dramatics department needs more funds than allowed in the budget to cover expenses. It was voted to give them $52.

The commission will sponsor the suggestion box in the main hall. Anyone who can think of a group of suitable names for the athletic fields and gym should write them down and place the suggestions in the box in the hall. The best group of names will earn an attractive J.C. rooster's jacket for the originator.

President Lemos announced that the 28-year-old coach was highly recommended by James Aiken, head coach at the University of Oregon, by Ray George, U.S.C. line coach, and Ray Pesco, Santa Clara coach.

Prior to the war, Coach Robinett was in charge of the University of Nevada freshman team, leaving this job to enter the service. During his years with the navy, 1942-46, he was in the Gene Tunney physical education program. It was after his navy service that he signed up to coach at Porterville.

Born in San Francisco, the new coach attended elementary and from Santa Cruz. At present, he is a member of the Sentinel sports staff, and is prominent in college activities.

CAMPUS CLOTHES

By
PATTIE WEATHERBIE

Time to scan the crowd once more to see what is the newest being worn . . . Joan Waite is wearing a beautiful deep red shortie coat that is warm in fleeciness as well as color—very cozy. A lightweight wool is the material of Gretchen Kolb's royal blue, smartly simple dress with a wide belt gaily ornamented by multi-colored felt flowers in the front. To add further freshness, Gretchen wore white flowers in her hair.

When the sun says out long enough to guarantee a lovely day again, we see the boys wearing outstanding cotton shirts. One is the light yellow rayon Fred Wright wears with a medium blue

When the sun stays out long floral illustrative design. So very pretty . . . And a shirt that strictly makes us yen for summer is the light blue cotton sport shirt of Dick Heim's that is an all-over design of sailboats and fish. Kermit Darrow is the boy with the wild and rugged theme of "injuns" all over a light gray-green cotton short-sleeved sport shirt, which is something to notice. The light yellow sport shirt of Flip DeBord suggests the land of wigwams, also with randomized block prints of light blue and wine in oddly shaped symbols. For the beach, the same and similar bright designs are made into shorts with matching shirts which look nothing less than sharp.

Dirndl skirts are fuller than ever, and soon the dresses themselves will be worn with those huge circular skirts that look so feminine. Meanwhile, Dorothy Cruz does just that when she wears a bright yellow gathered skirt with a darling cotton blouse. The blouse is a drawstring type with the top half being cotton eyelet above plain white cotton. Fresh as the morning sun!

Mary Longwood has a similar outfit, only her skirt is black with shallow scallops around the bottom edged in the white trim which also forms a huge bow on the skirt. The blouse that Mary wears with this skirt is a sheer peasant-styled blouse with a double ruffle around the low round neck. Again the edging is the same as the skirt. Another black dirndl skirt is being seen about on Rosemary Sutherland, except the trim on Rosemary's is wide, white horizontal bands in gradation—the largest at the bottom. Once again, a peasant blouse is the flattering shirtwaist.

No telling what practical jokers will do,

Once they are stirred and inspired;

Either they'll have you in stitches Or stitches will be required.

VOCATIONAL SHOP COURSES TO BE GIVEN

Vocational shop courses will be added to the expanding curriculum at Salinas Junior College next fall, President John B. Lemos announced this week.

The shop courses will be given at the former guayule project on East Alisal Street. The Salinas school district has already received title to a small area of land including the principal shop buildings and title for additional land is now in process of negotiation.

When all land has been obtained from the government, it is possible that the east campus of the junior college will have between 50 and 100 acres.

Courses at the East Campus will include auto mechanics, machine shop, tractor and truck repairing, carpentry, radio, aviation mechanics, and agriculture.

President J. B. Lemos is currently making every effort to obtain a highly qualified staff for the vocational division.

The new campus will provide adequate buildings and agricultural space for a student body of approximately 1,000 students. It is not expected that this number, or any sizable portion of it, will register in the opening semester next fall. However, it provides room for expansion.

Agriculture classes will be given in the present junior college building with agriculture mechanics temporarily presented on the high school campus and project work at the East Campus. Radio work will combine courses at the junior college and East Campus.

Shop classes will have the finest and most modern equipment available to students, Mr. C. I. Bentley, supervisor in charge of the shop program, indicates. Mr. Bentley has devoted almost full time to purchasing shop equipment during the past several months.

President Lemos announces bus service will be provided between the junior college and the East Campus. Most of the shop courses will take a full morning or a full afternoon, permitting students to carry the necessary related and academic subjects during the other half day.

Mrs. Hope Baxter's foods class prepared the lunch. In charge of food and clean-up were Della Schmaus, Bonnie Kline, and Florence Lawrence. Betty Head and Pattie Weatherbie were in charge of the game program.

Among those who attended the picnic were: Pat Heple, Pattie Weatherbie, Pauline Person, Florence Lawrence, Della Schmaus, Helen Robinson, Alice Brown, Margaret Hayes, Bonnie Kline, Betty Head, Gretchen Kolb, Betty Bem, Betsy Volk, Betty Sievert, Penny Holcomb, Shirley Paul, Billye Parsons, Margie Hicks, Helen Schalow, and Norma McMaster.

Mr. Peavy says, "The group has been well received in their previous trips and we hope these last ones will go as well."

Mr. Peavy's tumbling team went to Fort Ord Tuesday to put on a performance at the No. 1 Service Club.

Westminster Club Will Plan Picnic

There will be a business meeting of the Westminster Club next Monday in room 15 at 12:30 o'clock, announces Payson Gregory, president. All Protestant students are invited to attend the meeting.

President Oscar Burke and other officers of the Newman Club wish to express their sincere thanks to the members of the club for their attendance and assistance in making the program for the past year a success. Burke asks that the Catholic students continue their participation to make the club even better next year. The party held in April is the last meeting for this year.

Book Store To Carry New Items

Next semester, Mr. G. D. Peavy, manager of the book store, will have practically an old time general store on his hands. The store, in addition to the school supplies it already carries, will add a long list of novelties including: jewelry, compacts, toys, and even T-shirts with insignia.

Salinas Nine Travels To Marin For Crucials

With a double win needed to clinch their grasp on the top spot in the league standings, the Salinas Junior College baseball players journey to Marin where they play the lowly Mariners in what will be the deciding contests of the season.

Coach Dom Campolo is counting heavily on a twin triumph as his Panthers are forced to take them both if they still entertain any hopes of annexing the pennant. If past performances mean anything, the locals have the games in the bag, but statistics have meant too little in too many instances. So, all the Panthers can do is hope the dope sheet is correct this time.

Menlo, which currently is entrenched at the bottom of the heap, is one of the three teams able to lick the locals, so it is readily seen why predictions are uncertain.

Campolo will probably start Jim Prien and Stan Miller with Topper Arnett, who worked well in his last outing against the San Jose Jayvees, scheduled to see action on the hill also.

In the tennis world, the high flying Panthers, under the mentorship of G. Darwin Peavy, take on the Napa netmen in the seventh match of the current season. Thus far, the Panthers have gobbled up their first six competitors without so much as a case of indigestion. George Gossler has had little trouble in defending his crown and this Saturday's match should prove no exception.

Salinas is sending two representatives to the National Junior College Track Meet at Phoenix, in name, Ken Stivers and Arnold Hiserman. Coach Ed Adams is foregoing the chances of his squad in the N.C.J.C.C. meet to give these outstanding performers an opportunity to show their stuff against the best junior college competition in the state.

Tennis Team Wins Again, Takes San Mateo, 5-2

It was just a matter of form for the Salinas Junior College netmen who rolled merrily along garnering their sixth straight conference win over the San Mateo Bulldogs by a 5-2 count last Saturday on the Salinas courts.

George Gossler was never in trouble in his match as he blasted his opponent off the court, winning 6-0, 6-0. Don Prince and Ray Marnach, after giving their opposition a substantial advantage doggedly came from behind to squeeze out close victories.

Ron Bebb, the little-noticed Salinas number three man, continued his winning ways as he added another triumph to the Panthers' cause. Rouse Hinman lost the only Salinas singles match.

Gossler and Marnach, currently enjoying the top spot in the doubles department, were forced into three sets, but Bebb and Prince were edged in their doubles match.

Modesto looks to be the Panthers' strongest foe, and the match against the Pirates a week from Saturday could well mean the title.

Though maids and cooks are hard to get, And those who have them hoard them, They're bound to be quite plentiful The moment we can't afford them.

SACTO GOLF TEAM TRIPS LOCALS, 14-7

Sacramento J.C. golfers retained their unblemished record last Saturday when they took the measure of Salinas linksters, 14-7, in a match played over the Del Monte links.

Sacto's number one man, Bill Ogden, led all golfers, posting a 73 for the 18-hole layout. Next in line were Bryant Page, playing number three man for Sacramento, with a 75; Dave Nelson and Jim Gillette, Salinas' first and fourth men, who fired a pair of 76's.

Gillette led the local point getters by taking three from visitor Al Nelson and teaming with Norman Nuck to cop another point and a half on the foursome. Playing in the second slot, Wendell Olson fired an 80 to grab one point from Budd Watts and aided by Nelson picked up one more on the best ball, to complete the scoring for Salinas.

New Intramural Project Now On

With Don Prince's Monterey Dons winding up on top, Coach G. D. Peavy's intramural softball league drew to a close last week. The Dons led the league from the barrier and were never headed, mainly through the efforts of "Porky" Muniz, smooth working chucker.

Coach Peavy is now sponsoring a volleyball loop with a horseshoe tournament scheduled to be run off next week. The Santa Cruz Sandabs, current favorites to cop the volleyball crown, racked up a 15-7, 15-5 win over Prince's squad, giving some indication of things to come.

The horseshoe tourney will be run off in elimination fashion at the pits in front of the men's gym.

Miller Takes Nightcap To Split S.F. Series

Still maintaining an even keel, the Salinas Junior College Panthers, after losing a heartbreaking 5-3 contest in the opener, fought an uphill battle to barely survive, and keep their chances of a pennant intact by winning, 3-2, in their their doubleheader with San Francisco last Saturday on the Rams' diamond.

MILLER WINS

Stan Miller, the Panther southpaw, was the victor in the finale as he capably held the Rams in check, allotting four hits and two runs in the abbreviated nightcap. Miller whiffed five and gave up a couple of free passes.

Both games were well played, and with the exception of a few calamitous innings, the home towners might have stolen the show in both instances. As it was, the Rams punched out their two-run decision in the final frame of the first game when they capitalized on two errors and a base hit.

Miller had the good fortune of receiving fine support, which found "Sunny Jim" Prien on the losing end when his teammates yielded five errors in the crucial spots.

NAPOLI DOUBLES

Don Napoli provided the winning bingle in the second game as he punched out a two-bagger with two men aboard in the fifth frame to knot up the count at 2-all. Another tally in the sixth sewed up the tilt for Miller, who averted trouble in the final stages of the game.

Salinas fared rather poorly in the opener, and although they were in the contest all the way, they missed several golden opportunities to take the Rams into camp. It was the Salinas stickers who fell down, only accounting for five base knocks. Although two came in the ninth, they went for naught.

Frank Stone picked up three hits in five official outings at the platter to pace the Maroon and Gold batsmen.
